When Does Snowfall Start in Gulmarg?

Snowfall in Gulmarg usually begins in late December and continues until early March. During this time, the entire region gets covered in thick layers of snow, making it one of the best winter destinations in India.

Snowfall Season Timeline

- Late December: First heavy snowfall begins
- January: Peak snowfall season
- February: Consistent snow with better accessibility
- Early March: Snow starts melting but still visible

If your goal is to experience fresh snowfall and snow activities, timing your trip during these months is essential.

Best Month to See Snowfall in Gulmarg

January – Peak Snowfall Season ❄️

January is considered the best month to visit Gulmarg for snowfall.

During this time:

- Snowfall is at its highest
- Landscapes are fully covered in snow
- Perfect conditions for skiing and snowboarding

However, January is also the coldest month, with temperatures dropping below freezing. Travelers must be prepared for extreme cold weather.

February – Best Balance of Snow & Comfort

February is another excellent time to visit Gulmarg.

Why February is ideal:

- Thick snow is still present

- Slightly better weather conditions than January
- Easier road access compared to peak winter

This is a great option for tourists who want to enjoy snow without facing extreme weather challenges.

Late December – First Snow Experience

If you want to witness the first snowfall of the season, visiting Gulmarg in late December is a good option.

However:

- Snowfall can sometimes be unpredictable
- Not all areas may be fully covered in snow

Still, it's a magical time, especially for travelers visiting during holidays.
